NOW HIRING: PONDERA COUNTY SANITARIAN

This position is available on January 1, 2027.

Pondera County is seeking a successful candidate that must understand environmental health principles and applicable public health regulations. The position requires the ability to conduct inspections, investigate complaints, determine regulatory compliance, maintain accurate records, communicate effectively with the public and coordinate with other agencies during routine operations and emergencies.

A valid Montana driver's license and a good driving record are also required.

Physical and Working Conditions:
The job involves both office work and field inspections. Duties may require bending, stooping, kneeling and lifting up to 50 pounds. The sanitarian may also encounter difficult individuals while investigating complaints or enforcing regulations.

Overall Purpose of the Position:
The Registered Sanitarian serves as Pondera County's environmental health professional, helping ensure that food establishments, septic systems, drinking water and other public environments meet health and safety requirements. The role combines regulatory enforcement, inspections, permitting, public education and investigation of potential health risks.

Important consideration:
Although this is a part-time position, its responsibilities cover a broad range of environmental health programs. The annual limit of 1,560 hours averages approximately 30 hours per week, so workload and priorities may need to be managed carefully to ensure essential inspections, permitting and public health responses are completed.

Pondera County is an Equal Opportunity Employer
